The course focuses on fostering an entrepreneurial mindset by promoting creativity, innovation, critical thinking, problem-solving, adaptability, and opportunity recognition in students. Participants will explore contemporary approaches to entrepreneurship education, curriculum integration, experiential and project-based learning, design thinking, lean startup principles, and innovative assessment methods. Through interactive workshops, case studies, collaborative activities, and action planning, participants will develop practical approaches for embedding entrepreneurial learning outcomes into existing courses and programs. The course is intended for faculty members, academic leaders, and higher education professionals seeking to strengthen entrepreneurship education and enhance graduate employability through innovative teaching practices. Upon completion, participants will be able to design entrepreneurship-focused learning experiences, apply effective teaching and assessment strategies, and develop implementation plans to integrate entrepreneurial thinking within their academic context.
